Tiny World began as a small way of noticing
the small things that feel like HOME.

A reminder that every place you are,
whether carved from stone, blooming in gardens, or glowing beneath a porch light,
holds some version of home.

Through stitched borders, parchment pages,
and old maps, Nigel wanders the world
quietly — observing windows, porches,
petals, and gatherings, and people.

This atlas is a record of those journeys.

If you are holding it, you are already part of the story.

— Stamped with care and sent with wonder

Every place holds shelter.
Every journey carries home.
